GUIDELINES FOR MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION

1. JSALT

Journal of South Asian Logistics and Transport (JSALT) is a peer-reviewed bi-annual English language journal published by the Sri Lanka Society of Transport and Logistics (SLSTL). It provides a space in which findings of original research, particularly focusing on the South Asian context, including those presented at the annual conference on Research for Transport and Logistics Industry (R4TLI), organised by the SLSTL. In addition to research articles, the Journal accepts manuscripts of policy and strategic perspectives.

2. MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION CONDITIONS

Articles must be written in standard UK English. Proper grammar is a requirement for publication in JSALT. Any articles submitted with poor grammar will be immediately rejected. All articles must be prepared using the JSALT Template and submitted as a Microsoft Word document.

JSALT does not have a page limit for articles. However, it is recommended to keep the page count under 25 B5 pages or 6,000 words for ease of readability. Longer articles may result in longer peer review times. Additional content can be added as supplementary material.

All third-party-owned materials used have been identified with appropriate credit lines, and permission has been obtained from the copyright holder for all formats of the journal. Authors acknowledge their responsibility to gain all permissions before submission.

Author lists should be carefully considered before submission. All contributing authors qualify as authors, as defined in the authorship guidelines, and are permitted to be listed on the submitted paper. (Changes to the author list during the post-acceptance are not allowed.)

The authors would be required to confirm that the articles they have submitted have not previously been published and are not currently being considered for publication by another journal.

The Editorial Board will address all communications to the corresponding author, who should be identified at the time of submission. All submissions to the journal will be governed by the Editorial Policies.

3. STRUCTURE OF ARTICLES

Abstract

The abstract should be a single paragraph of about 200 words maximum and should not exceed the length of the cover page of the paper. For research articles, abstracts should give a pertinent overview of the work. We strongly encourage authors to use the following style of structured abstracts, but without headings: (1) Background: Place the question addressed in a broad context and highlight the purpose of the study; (2) Methods: briefly describe the main methods or treatments applied; (3) Results: summarize the article's main findings; (4) Conclusions: indicate the main conclusions or interpretations. The abstract should be an objective representation of the article and it must not contain results that are not presented and substantiated in the main text and should not exaggerate the main conclusions.

Key Words

Authors should submit a maximum of six unique and informative keywords relating to the manuscript. Undefined abbreviations or acronyms should be avoided in the keywords. Editorial Board reserves the right to replace keywords if necessary.

Introduction

The Introduction should emphasize the research background and motivation, the research gap, and the objectives of the study. It should define the purpose of the work and its significance. The literature review may or may not be put as a separate section, but it is important to link the paper to existing literature.

Methodology

The Materials and Methods should be described with sufficient details to allow others to replicate and build on the published results. New methodologies and protocols should be described in detail while well-established methods can be briefly described and appropriately cited.

Results

It should provide a concise and precise description of the experimental results, their interpretation, as well as the experimental conclusions that can be drawn.

Discussion

Authors should discuss the results and how they can be interpreted from the perspective of previous studies and of the working hypotheses. The findings and their implications should be discussed in the broadest context possible. Future research directions may also be highlighted.

Conclusions

This section is not mandatory but can be added to the manuscript if the discussion is unusually long or complex.

Equations

Equations should be indented and separated from the text. All equations should be sequentially numbered within brackets and placed on the far-right side of the line.

Tables

Tables should present useful information and not merely duplicate what is in the text. Tables should be numbered. The caption should be clear enough to represent what is presented in the table. Please supply editable files (for example, tables should not be put in the form of a picture).

Figures

Figures and photographs should be fitted into the body area in portrait orientation. Photographs should be preferably scanned with a resolution of 220 dpi in .jpg or .tif format and sized before placement in the manuscript. Each figure should be sequentially numbered, and the caption should be located below the Figure. All figures should be in sharp contrasting colours so that they can easily be legible even in black and white prints.

References

The references list should comprise all sources used in the paper located at the end of the paper using the IEEE referencing style (https://ieeeauthorcenter.ieee.org/wp-content/uploads/IEEE-Reference-Guide.pdf). They should contain full bibliographical details in numerical order at the end of the manuscript. In the reference list, all authors should be included.

Appendices

Sometimes appendices help readers to further study the issue presented. Submit appendices separately after attaching tables and figures. If more than one appendix is featured, use capital letters to refer to them in the text: Appendix A, Appendix B, etc. Follow guidelines for tables or figures, as appropriate, when formatting appendices.

Plagiarism Policy

Each article submitted to JSALT is checked for plagiarism, including similarity to the authors' own work. An article that is found to be plagiarized by more than 20% (Similarity Index) at any point of the publication process is rejected, and the authors are notified.
